

Order a PB&J from bodega

Identify the Problem: I'm hungry and just want a quick snack, so I decide to order a peanut butter and jelly sandwich from the bodega. The issue is, I need to check if it's open, what kind of bread, peanut butter, and jelly they have, and how I'm going to pay for it.

What Do I Need to Know: I need to know if the bodega is open right now, what types of bread and spreads they offer, and if I can customize the sandwich (like getting extra peanut butter or no jelly). Also, I should figure out if they take cash or cards and whether I should go in person or order through an app.

Organize the Data: The bodega is open, so I'll just grab a classic PB&J with white bread, creamy peanut butter, and grape jelly. I'll make sure I have cash or a card, and if I'm ordering online, I'll double-check if they deliver through an app.

Find and Identify the Relationship: Ordering a PB&J from the bodega solves my hunger fast. I'll just need to make sure I communicate exactly what I want so I get the right sandwich. Plus, I need to have my payment ready.

Find a Solution: I'll either call the bodega, go in person, or use a delivery app to order a PB&J with white bread, creamy peanut butter, and grape jelly. I'll confirm the price, make sure the payment is set, and wait for my sandwich.
